01 — THE MARK

5 + 0.
NOW WITH ONE ACCENT.

The mark is unchanged — same construction, same proportions, same restraint. The only shift: the dot that always stood in for zero now carries the brand's single accent colour. Everything else stays strictly black and white.

ON WHITE / OFF-WHITE

ON BLACK

02 — COLOUR

ONE RULE.
NO EXCEPTIONS.

Red is worn only by the dot — in the mark, and in the small system of dot-marks it licenses (section 04). It never becomes a background, a button, a headline colour or a block of colour. The moment it does, it stops meaning anything.

BLACK

Primary — default state

#FFFFFF

WHITE

Primary — max contrast

#F6F4EF

OFF-WHITE

Secondary — long-read surfaces

#E2361F

SIGNAL RED

The dot. Nothing else.

03 — TYPOGRAPHY

MAKE SOMETHING WORTH SEEING.

ROLE	TYPEFACE	USE
H1	Poppins 700	Hero headline
Body	Liberation Sans 400	Running copy
Mono	DejaVu Sans Mono 500	Labels / metadata

04 — THE DOT, IN USE

Once learned from the mark, the dot travels — always red, always singular, never decorative clutter.

FIFTH • ZERO 01 • FILM 02 • DESIGN
REC • PLAY • ZERO •

05 — VOICE

WE SOUND	NEVER
• Short, cut not padded	— “End-to-end...”
• Confident, never boastful	— “360-degree...”
• Plain about what's real	— “Synergy”

06 — APPLICATION

Same rule everywhere: black-and-white system, one red dot doing all the talking.
